

CONTENTS

THE HISTORY OF FUSSA	1
Foreword	3
1. Stone tool using people	5
1.1 Birth of the human species
1.2 The Paleolithic Period in Japan
1.3 Paleolithic culture in the Tama region	9
2. A rich environment
2.1 The natural environment in the Paleolithic Period
2.2 A warming climate
2.3 How nature blessed Fussa
3. Jomon Period along the middle reaches of the Tama River	12
3.1 What was the Jomon Period
3.2 Villages along the Tama River
3.3 Earthenware excavated from along the middle reaches of the Tama River
3.4 Active and widespread contacts
4. The Nagasawa Site	16
4.1 Traces of the Jomon people's life
4.2 A sketch of the village ruins
4.3 Development and decline of the village
5. Life in the Jomon Period	20
5.1 Dwellings
5.2 Earthenware from the Nagasawa Site
5.3 Various types of stone implements
5.4 Human life in harmony with nature
6. Spirituality in the Jomon Period	24
6.1 The Jomon heart put into their earthenware
6.2 Special tools

7. Initiation of rice cultivation	28
7.1 The arrival of rice cultivation from the continent
7.2 The development of society
7.3 The Yayoi Period in the Tama region
8. Vicissitudes of ancient Japan	31
8.1 Kofun Construction Period
8.2 Power conflicts in ancient Musashi Province
8.3 Mound tombs and daily life in the Tama region
9. Musashikokubunji Temple and villages	36
9.1 The Taika Reform and the Ritsuryo System
9.2 Musashikokubunji Temple and Tosando Highway
9.3 Village distribution
9.4 Cow and horse domestication
10. The Kamakura Sogunate and Musashi Province	42
10.1 The emergence of warrior groups
10.2 Warrior groups in Musashi Province
10.3 Warlord MINAMOTO no Yoritomo's founding of the Kamakura Shogunate
10.4 Fussa and the Nishi-to warrior group
11. The Development of Musashino	47
11.1 Musashi Province under the Hojo family
11.2 The legend of Chojabori Aqueduct
12. The Kamakura shogunate to the Muromachi Shogunate	50
12.1 The two Mongolian invasions
12.2 The downfall of the Kamakura Shogunate
12.3 The emergence of warlord ASHIKAGA Takauji
12.4 Kanto under the Kamakura-fu
13. Upheaval in the eastern provinces	56
13.1 Local warrior groups
14. Feudal domination of the Tama region	58
14.1 The Oishi family's control of the Tama region
14.2 The Hirayama family's control of Fussa

14.3 The Mita family's control of the upper Tama River
14.4 Odawara Hojo's invasion of Musashi Province
15. Life in Fussa in the Sengoku Period	62
15.1 HOJO Ujiteru's Seisatsu
15.2 How the people of Fussa-go survived the unrest
16. Temples and beliefs	66
16.1 Zen temples and the Raihaidaimyoin Shrine
16.2 Development of Rinzaishu sects
16.3 Raihaidaimyoin Shrine and Ofuruishi-no-mikoto
16.4 Hanzawa Kakuenbo and Shinpukuji Temple
16.5 Religious beliefs seen in Itabi
16.6 Tomb stones with engraved Buddhist statues
17. Coin trove excavated in Fussa	74
17.1 Coins excavated in Fussa
17.2 Coin circulation in Medieval Times
17.3 When were the coins buried
17.4 Who buried the coins
17.5 Fukujin belief fashionable in the Muromachi Period
18. Downfall of the Hojo family and the end of Medieval Times	78
18.1 Kanto's situation
18.2 Hachioji Castle's construction by HOJO Ujiteru
18.3 Hideyoshi's order forbidding war
18.4 Attack and defense at Hachioji Castle
19. The international situation at the beginning of the Early Modern Times	82
19.1 Economic order in East Asia
19.2 Hideyoshi's invasion of Korea
19.3 Prohibition of Christianity and national isolation
20. Establishment of the Shogunate and Domain System	86
20.1 TOKUGAWA Ieyasu's entry into the Kanto region
20.2 Changing control of Fussa and Kumagawa villages
20.3 Land surveying and village establishment
21. Village foundation legends	90

21.1	Records of village establishment
21.2	Growth in farming as seen in Munafuda
22.	Changes in annual tribute	92
22.1	Farmers' annual tribute
22.2	Determination of the annual tribute
22.3	Receipts for annual tribute
22.4	The "Eino" payment with coin system
22.5	Reform of collection method
23.	Village family registers and changes in population	96
23.1	Temple registers of individuals
23.2	Changes in households and population
23.3	Servants and horses
23.4	Death and succession
23.5	Marriage
23.6	Family demographics
24.	Tamagawajosui Aqueduct and Shinbori Aqueduct	102
24.1	The Tama River water supply to Edo
24.2	Place named "Mizukuraido"
24.3	Aqueduct channel replacement in 1740
25.	Textile manufacturing and farm occupations	109
25.1	Textile manufacturing and marketing
25.2	Sericulture and weaving
25.3	Off-season farm occupations
26.	Uchikowashi riots and famines	114
26.1	Uchikowashi riots in the Tenmei era
26.2	Kanto-torishimari-deyaku and the reform union villages
26.3	Tenpo Era Famine
27.	Niwaba and Kumi associations	116
27.1	Special groups in villages
27.2	Functions and structures of the Niwaba
27.3	A village group for annual tribute payment
28.	The flourishing of rural literature	119
28.1	The village haiku poet Gyokusekikan Bairi

28.2	Fukusensha Yuho's activities
28.3	MORITA Yusho
29.	Unrest in the farm villages and the collapse of the Tokugawa Shogunate	123
29.1	The Opium War and the Asian resistance
29.2	Opening the nation and development after that
29.3	Transformation of villages
29.4	Village alteration after the opening of the nation
29.5	Egawa's conscripted farmers and Haijima-shuku Union
29.6	The Bushu-yonaoshi-ikki riot
30.	Work supporting livelihood	129
30.1	Traditional life in Fussa
30.2	From planting to harvest
30.3	Rice cropping
30.4	Silkworm breeding
30.5	River fishing in the Tama River
30.6	Artisans' work
31.	Clothing and livelihood	143
31.1	Spinning and weaving
31.2	Working clothes
31.3	Children's growth and children's clothes
31.4	Clothes for important occasions
32.	Eating habits	147
32.1	Daily meals
32.2	Meals for important occasions
33.	Dwellings and livelihood	149
33.1	Evolution of dwellings
33.2	Residence style
33.3	Traditional arrangement of rooms
33.4	Room usage and living style
34.	Annual events	155
34.1	Bon and Kure ceremonies
34.2	The O-shogatsu event
34.3	The Ko-shogatsu event
34.4	Obon-sama

35. Social connections	159
35.1 Regional connections
35.2 Zenwangura storehouses by jointly shared Niwaba
36. Gatherings of people	162
36.1 Guardian Gods of the home
36.2 Gatherings of Ko
37. Festivals and public entertainments	166
37.1 Fussa Tenno-bayashi
37.2 Fussa Jumaryu-bayashi
38. From Kanagawa-ken to Tokyo-fu	168
38.1 From Nirayama-ken and Shinagawa-ken to Kanagawa-ken 38.2 Issues occurring during the transfer to Tokyo-fu
38.3 Issues occurring during the transfer to Metropolitan Tokyo
38.4 Fussa's first steps toward city status
39. Sericulture and silk spinning	173
39.1 The expanding silk spinning industry and Morita Silk Mill
39.2 MORITA Michiko, a lady with foresight
39.3 TAKASAKI Jihei and the sericulture industry
40. Education before the Pacific War	181
40.1 Schooling in the Meiji Period
40.2 Patriotic education in the Taisho Period and the TAGUCHI Mannosuke Principle
40.3 Education in early Showa Period
41. War and the people of Fussa	191
41.1 People who partook in the Sino-Japanese War
41.2 People mobilized to the Russo-Japanese War
41.3 The Pacific War's effect on children in Fussa
41.4 Air raids
42. Tama Air Field	198
42.1 Air field construction
42.2 The Imperial Army's Air Inspection Department

43. The post Pacific War education system	201
43.1 Start of the 6-3 education system
44. Cultural movements	204
44.1 Regional cultural movements in the Santama region
44.2 Reconstruction of the Fussa Youth Association and other regional cultural movements
44.3 The "Akaza" movement
44.4 Nishitama Free University and others
45. Post Pacific War administrative transition	208
45.1 The road to city status
45.2 Occupation by the United States Armed Forces
45.3 Expansions of the local military base
45.4 Fussa and Yokota Air Base
45.5 Enactment of the Citizen's Charter
45.6 The sixty thousand citizen milestone
45.7 The global era, KIMURA Kumajiro and MORITA Koichi
45.8 Historical reorganization and global communication
Postscript	219
APPENDICES	221
List of Figures	223
Bibliographies	231
Chronological Table of Fussa's History	239

THE
HISTORY OF FUSSA